

The real scam

Thursday, October 14, 2010

E-mail Print (4) Comments Text size Share Buzz up!

I'm always amused by the fumbling, awkward comments of opponents to America's first offshore wind project ("Cape wind rates will whack businesses, hospitals, schools," Oct. 4) One recently referred to Cape Wind as a "scam," causing me to chuckle, if only because the real scams involve oil companies signing checks to avoid congressional review after wrecking havoc on an entire marine environment, or when coal companies avoid paying restitution to the thousands of American citizens impacted by mountain top removal.

- Stacy Clark, Jamaica Plain

(4) Comments | Post / Read Comments

Next Article in Letters to the Editor:

Real growth here

ADVERTISEMENT

Dallas Coupons www.Groupon.com/Dallas

1 ridiculously huge coupon a day. It's like doing Dallas at 90% off!

Siemens Wind Power www.usa.siemens.com/windpower

More than 25 years of experience & knowledge in the wind industry.

Stop Cape Wind Today www.saveoursound.org

Help protect Nantucket Sound Take Action Now

Ads by Google

RELATED ARTICLES

Google's windy proposal

By Boston Herald Editorial Staff

That proposal of Google and its partners to build wind turbines off the Atlantic...

Local firm to fashion Cape Wind components

By Staff and wire reports

A local company will make foundations and metal components for the controversial...

Most National Grid customers are far from Cape Wind site

By Jay Fitzgerald

Some of Cape Wind's biggest critics ironically won't have to foot the...

More on:

+ Cape Wind + Stacy Clark

ADVERTISEMENT

TOP ARTICLES IN NEWS & OPINION

1. Student from N. Easton slain by cops after N.Y. bar brawl
2. President Obama's faithful losing hope as the magic fades
3. T puts target on taggers

Ads by Google

Wind Turbine Training
Become a Wind Turbine Technician in just 6 months! Hands on training.
www.nw-ell.com
New Razor From Gillette®